

Citizens believed that it is advantages in team sports, while other people think that individual sports is better. In my view, both types of sports have their own beneficial, but i think team sports are better for most people

On the one hand, team sports such as football, badminton is bring many benifits. First, People can learn how to contact with other when they are teammates if they want to win the match. Second, playing in the team make people can feel motivated, they can mutual support and create cheerful atmosphere. For example, many students enjoy playing football because they can spend time with friends and feel more confident.

On the other hand, individual sports such as tennis or swimming also have some good points. These sports allow people to focus on their own skills and improve at their own speed. Some people prefer this because they do not need to depend on others. Moreover, individual sports can help people become more independent and responsible for their own performance.

In conclusion, while individual sports are useful for personal development, I believe team sports are more beneficial because they help people learn teamwork and create stronger social connections.
